Cheyenne Jones receives Girl Scout Gold Award... the highest individual achievement in Girl Scouting

Glen Carbon, Illinois -- The Girl Scouts of Southern Illinois (GSSI) is pleased to announce that Cheyenne Lenea Jones from Murphysboro has earned the Girl Scout Gold Award, the highest award a Girl Scout can receive.

For her Girl Scout Gold Award project, Cheyenne worked with the Carbondale Public Library and the Inter-Community Food Drive to help raise awareness of children who needed food on the weekends when school is not in session. She also worked with eight schools, 8 church youth groups and two community youth groups to conduct a two-week food drive for area children.

Cheyenne, who attends Murphysboro High School, is the daughter of Cherry Jones.

The Girl Scout Gold Award recognizes a Senior Girl Scout's commitment to excellence as she develops skills and values to meet present and future challenges in her life. To earn the Girl Scout Gold Award, a Senior Girl Scout must design and carry out a plan of activities covering community service, career exploration, specialized interest projects, and leadership skills. The project must be completed with at least 65 hours of work. Only about 5 percent of eligible girls earn the prestigious Gold Award.

Today's Girl Scouts not only enjoy camping and crafts, but they also explore math and science and learn about diversity, good citizenship, leadership and teamwork. Girl Scouting is the place where girls experience the fun, friendship and power of girls together.

It's been 98 years since the first Girl Scout troop meeting, and Girl Scouting has evolved from 18 members to more than 3.5 million nationwide. Today, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. is the largest voluntary organization for girls in the world. Its sole focus is to meet the needs of all girls (ages 5-17) from diverse racial, ethnic and socioeconomic backgrounds.

After returning to the United States from England, Juliette Gordon Low made a historic phone call to her cousin in March 1912, "Come right over! I've got something for the girls of Savannah, all America, and all the world, and we're going to start it tonight." The "something" was Girl Scouts, and the first group of girls embarked on Gordon Low's vision. Low was determined to help expand opportunities and learning for the average American girl. At a time when many girls' paths in life were limited to their social standing, Low's vision was to establish an organization where any American girl could expand her personal horizon by having fun, while exploring new interests and contributing to society.

The mission of Girl Scouting states: Girl Scouting builds girls of courage, confidence, and character who make the world a better place. Girl Scouts is the world's pre-eminent organization dedicated solely to girls - all girls - where, in an accepting and nurturing environment, girls build character and skills for success in the real world. In partnership with committed adults, girls develop qualities that will serve them all their lives - like strong values, social conscience, and conviction about their own potential and self-worth.

Today's Girl Scouts not only enjoy camping and crafts, but they also explore math and science and learn about diversity, good citizenship, leadership and teamwork. Girl Scouting is the place where girls experience the fun, friendship and power of girls together.

Girl Scouting has inspired more than 50 million girls and women since its founding in 1912. As we approach the 100th anniversary of Girl Scouting, councils nationwide are joining in a historic organizational transformation centered around the best leadership development experience for girls in the 21st Century, while ensuring the traditions and values that have been core to Girl Scouting since its beginning remain strong and relevant.

The Girl Scouts of Southern Illinois is a not-for-profit organization supported by various United Ways throughout the region. The Girl Scouts is a Proud Partner of United Way. For more information, please call Jay Strobel at 618.692.0692 or Tricia Higgins at 618.242.5079.
