Today, there are nearly 2.5 million Girl Scouts - close to 1.7 million girl members and 750,000 adult members working primarily as volunteers.

Empowering Girls
Girl Scouts helps girls develop their full individual potential; relate to others with increasing understanding, skill, and respect; develop values to guide their actions and provide the foundation for sound decision making; and contribute to the improvement of society through their abilities, leadership skills, and cooperation with others.

Girls grow courageous and strong through a wide variety of enriching experiences, such as field trips, skill-building sports clinics, community service projects, cultural exchanges, and environmental stewardships.

Successful businesswomen who are Girl Scout alums include Susan Wojcicki, CEO of YouTube, and Virginia Rometty, CEO of IBM.

Star athletes who are Girl Scout alums include four-time Olympian Jackie Joyner-Kersee.

Girl Scout alums in the world of public service include former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright, and former Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice.

Media greats Katie Couric, Barbara Walters, and Robin Roberts are Girl Scout alums.

The Girl Scout Cookie Program is the largest girl-led business in the world.

71% of female U.S. Senators are Girl Scout alums.

The 4 Pillars of Girl Scouting

STEM
Build a bridge. Program a robot. Explore space. Girl Scouts do that! STEM careers are among the fastest growing sectors of our economy, yet only 34% of the STEM workforce is women. Girl Scouts aims to bridge that gap. With strong STEM programming, girls are able to explore opportunities in non-traditional fields to uncover their full potential.

Life Skills
Civic engagement, community service, healthy living, global citizenship – life skills learned through Girl Scouts give girls inspiration to accept challenges. They gain courage and confidence to overcome obstacles and take the lead to make the world a better place.

Entrepreneurship
Through Girl Scouts, girls gain five valuable skills when participating in entrepreneurship programs such as the Girl Scout Cookie Program. Goal setting, decision making, money management, people skills, and business ethics are skills that will serve girls for the rest of their lives. These skills encourage girls to be curious, embrace challenge, take initiative, collaborate with others, and adapt to change. Last year GSofSI Girl Scouts sold 718,485 packages of cookies!

Outdoors
Girl Scouts has a long and successful history of getting girls outdoors. For over 110 years, girls have been given opportunities to explore their backyard and beyond! Skills such as building a campfire, canoeing across a lake, and hitting a bullseye on the archery range help girls develop an overall appreciation for nature and commitment to protect the environment.
